

The Key Role of Construction in South Dakota's Economy

- The industry employed 22,200 workers in December 2007, 5% of the state's nonfarm employment of 408,500 and a decrease of 3% from one year before. Nationally, construction accounted for 5% of nonfarm employment but fell 2.9% over the year as homebuilding shrank.
- Construction contributed $1 billion to state GDP of $32 billion in 2006.
- Annual pay in 2006 in construction averaged $33,653, 13% more than the private sector average of $29,832. Nationally, construction pay averaged $44,496, 5% more than the national private sector average of $42,414.
- Small business is big in construction. South Dakota had 3,234 construction firms in 2005, of which 95% employed fewer than 20 workers. In addition, South Dakota had 7,306 construction firms without employees, mainly sole proprietorships, in 2005.
- South Dakota's population grew 1.0% from July 2006 to July 2007, 20th fastest of all states; the national growth rate was 1%. Population growth affects the demand for many types of construction.
